Many people call platypus duckbill because this animal has a bill like a duck's bill. Platypus is an indigenous of Tasmania and southern and eastern Australia. Although it lays eggs instead of bearing its young alive, the platypus is a true mammal, not a reptile. It nurses its young with milk as do other mammals.

Platypus has a flat tail and webbed feet. Its body length is 30 to 45 cm and covered with a thick and woolly layer of fur. Its bill is detecting prey and stirring up mud. Its eyes and head are small. It has no ears but has ability to sense sound and light.

The male platypus has a hollow claw, or spur, on each hind leg. The spurs are connected with poison glands. The platypus leg scratches and poisons its enemies with its spurs.

Platypus lives in streams, rivers, and lakes. Female platypus usually digs burrows in the streams or river banks. The burrows are blocked with soil to protect it from intruders and flooding. On the other hand, male platypus does not need any burrow to stay.

Answer Questions 39 to 42 refer to the following text.

Igloos or snowhouses are shelters constructed from blocks of snow, generally in the form of a dome. Although igloos are usually associated with all Inuit, they were predominantly constructed by people of Canada's Central Arctic and Greenland's Thule area. Inuit people tended to use snow to insulate their houses. The temperature outside may be as low as -45°C , but on the inside the temperature may range from -7°C to 16°C when warmed by body heat alone.

There were three traditional types of igloos. The smallest one was constructed as a temporary shelter, usually used for one or two nights. These were built and used during hunting trips, often on open sea ice. Next in size was the semi permanent, intermediate-sized for family dwelling. This is a single room dwelling that housed one or two families. The largest of the igloos is normally built in groups of two. These might have had up to five rooms and housed up to 20 people. A large igloo might have been constructed from several igloos attached by tunnels, giving common access to the outside. These were used to hold community feasts and traditional dances.

The following text is for Questions 43 to 46.

Democracy is a form of government. The word democracy means rule by the people. Abraham Lincoln described such self-government as government of the people, by the people, for the people.

The citizens of a democracy take part in government either directly or indirectly. In a direct, or pure, democracy, the people meet in one place to make the laws for their community.

Most modern democracy is representative democracy. In large communities-cities, states, provinces, or countries- it is impossible for all the people to meet as a group. Instead, they elect certain number of their fellow citizens to represent them in making decisions about laws and other matters that affect the people. An assembly of representatives may be called a council, a legislature, a parliament, or a congress. Government by the people through their freely elected representatives is sometimes called republican government.

The democratic way of life recognizes the equality and dignity of all persons regardless of race, religion, sex, or social standing. It holds that everyone is equal in court trials and other legal matters. It provides freedom of speech, freedom of the press, and freedom of religion.

The following text is for Questions 47 to 50.

Sutiyoso will be given an Asian Air Quality Management Award Friday at an International Conference in Yogyakarta, but some people have questions whether he really deserved the honor. The critics say Sutiyoso has done little to reduce air pollution in the capital.

I think Sutiyoso deserved the award. Although we haven't seen solid air quality management, he has restored the National Monument (Monas) Park to a green cool area where families can go to jog or have a picnic.

He also initiated the busway project, which I believe is a good step toward reducing air pollution in Jakarta.

However, the government has to take further action, such as limiting the number of motorcycles in Jakarta. All of the motorcycles on the roads contribute to air pollution in the city.

On the other hand, some people can't understand how Sutiyoso can win this award because he hasn't made any improvement in Jakarta's air management.

Jakarta is becoming more polluted as the authorities cut down more and more trees for transportation projects. And they don't bother to plant new trees to replace the old ones, let alone develop new green areas.

The authorities should build more parks in the city to make Jakarta greener and less polluted. Monas park is greener now, but the fences prevent people from getting in. In countries like Singapore and Australia, public parks are pleasant places to hang out.

47. Why did people say that Sutiyoso deserved the award?
- A. Monas park is green now.
 - B. Jakarta is becoming more polluted.
 - C. He has improved Jakarta's air management.
 - D. He limited the number of motorcycles in the city.
 - E. He restored the Monas park and initiated the busway project.
48. What has Sutiyoso done to reduce air pollution in Jakarta?
- A. Initiating the bus project.
 - B. Holding an international conference.
 - C. Limiting the number of motorcycles.
 - D. Building fences around the Monas park.
 - E. Cutting down more and more trees.

49. What is the purpose of the text?
- A. To explain why Sutiyoso got an Asian Air Quality Management Award.
 - B. To present points of views about the award given to Sutiyoso.
 - C. To tell readers how to provide solid air quality management.
 - D. To describe an Asian Air Quality Management Award.
 - E. To assure readers that Sutiyoso deserved the award.
50. It is not easy to get in the Monas park because
- A. more and more trees were cut down
 - B. it is use for having a picnic
 - C. it is use for jogging track
 - D. there is a cool area
 - E. there are fences
